Achieve compliance in digital communication review with Spectra

Leveraging custom compliance review workflows for email data with Brainspace and Relativity.

Spectra

Today, data is everywhere. It drives the sharing of information between individuals and organizations and plays an intrinsic role in the advancement of nearly every industry. With new data sources continually emerging and data stores expanding, companies have had to reconsider how data is captured and maintained. This trend has resulted in wide-ranging information governance and regulatory standards that are designed to safeguard the privacy and rights of the individuals represented.

Organizations across the globe are seeking next-generation solutions to reliably accommodate increasing data compliance demands. For many Lighthouse clients managing regulated data, this solution is provided on the Spectra platform.

Spectra is engineered to empower the processing, review, and production of electronically stored information, and is uniquely capable of helping legal teams achieve compliance across electronic communications. Our expert team collaborates with clients to develop customized workflows on the Spectra platform to support external and internal audits and reviews, and data calls, such as DSARs.

Spectra provides the capabilities that in-house compliance and ediscovery teams need to meet their routine compliance checkpoints, while allowing them to experience peace of mind knowing they can rely upon our on-demand service and support. With our dynamic support model, clients can maintain complete control of their data review process on the Spectra platform or seek guidance from Lighthouse legal and technology professionals.

Whether helping clients streamline their email compliance review to meet healthcare regulations or assisting EU-based legal teams in efficiently addressing DSARs, the Spectra platform and Lighthouse services and support allow organizations to reduce the complexities and costs associated with maintaining their compliance programs.
